
 refers to links on www.crossref-it.info

❖ Jane as narrator

- Why do you think the final chapter opens with a direct address to the reader?
- Look for the other occasions in the novel when Jane addresses the reader in this manner
  - When do they occur
  - Do they have anything in common in terms of their placing in the narrative?

❖ Narrative irony

- Do you think that Jane Eyre contains any narrative irony?
See  Texts in detail > Jane Eyre > Narrative > Narrative irony

- Find some examples and think of what they tell us about the character of Jane
- Are there scenes or episodes where the reader might wish to take a critical view of Jane's actions?
  - Create a chart with some examples and your comments on each.