

A. ... for since her eyes last fell upon it she had learnt that the serpent hisses where the sweet birds sing ...
(Ch.12)

B. ... a Sunday morning before she had eaten of the tree of knowledge ...
(Ch.16)

C. ... a feeling of isolation, as if they were Adam and Eve.
(Ch.20)
Note: look back at the description of the garden in Ch.19.

D. ... she regarded him as Eve at her second waking might have regarded Adam.
(Ch.27)

E. ... he saw the red interior of her mouth as if it had been a snake's.
(Ch.27)

F. I never said you were Satan, or thought it.
(Ch.50)